Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3-5 and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamanoi et al (U.S Patent No. 6,067,335 cited in PTOL 1449).

These claims are met by the circuitry and operation as disclosed relative to Figs 5A-5D, 6A-6B. These circuits disclose switching through a phase detector, a charge pump and a VCO, and controlling the charge pump by division of the reference frequency and then detecting the phase with the phase comparator, which in turn affect the VCO to output different frequencies for switching to different modes. First mode and second mode read on idle mode and read mode, switching the mode of the PLL circuit from the first mode to the second mode or the second mode to the first mode when the high impedance state is detected (during idle mode, 406-407 achieve lock using the output of the time base generator before switching over to read mode). The limitation “delay circuit” recited in claim 17 is inherent seen in col. 7, line 48. Element “LOOP FILTER 2” reads on “a low-pass filter” as recited in claim 18.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 6-16 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
